

ASPIRE

Advanced Summer Program for Investigation and Research Education

ASPIRE is an applied research opportunity at Washington University School of Medicine for current undergraduate college students. The purpose of ASPIRE is to immerse young investigators in clinical research with didactic sessions, seminars, and a hands-on mentored research experience. ASPIRE occurs each summer from early June - late July.

Now accepting applications!

Application deadline: February 20, 2019

2019 Program Dates: June 3 – July 31

SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AVAILABLE!

Program Benefits

- Mentor-supported research
- Three hours of undergraduate credit
- Tools and experience to provide an understanding of medical research
- Professional development seminars & workshops
- Networking opportunities for career building

Eligibility Requirements

- Commitment to full-time (40 hours per week) effort for the duration of the program
- Current full-time college Freshman, Sophomore, or Junior
- Must be 18 years of age by program start date

For more information visit: crtc.wustl.edu/aspire

For program inquiries: crtc@email.wustl.edu